

Many nurture a desire to be remembered for having made a difference; some are recognized for special achievements. For those who have made a difference, the following are some of the ways they are remembered:

[REDACTED]