

SIMON FRASER UNIVERSITY

Honorary Degree Citations The degree of Doctor of Laws, honoris causa, conferred on Dr. Thomas Simons June 1992

It is with distinct pleasure, Madam Chancellor, that I present to you Thomas Simons, a private and modest man who gives to private enterprise a human face. In practice and in principle, he unites business ethics with success, turning corporate achievement to the service of an enlivened conscience. Emerson claimed that "The true test of civilization is the kind of man the country turns out", and for all those intent on entering the corporate world, Thomas Simons presents a model well worth emulating.