

Research Coordinator

November

Summary

The Two-

work of the Lab. The 2SDL is a collaborative of Indigenous and settler researchers and community leaders engaged in research at the intersections of Indigeneity, gender, sexual orientation, and geography. We work to promote wise and best practices in sex and gender research and to grow new knowledge(s) that can be applied to improve the lives, health and/or wellbeing of Two-Spirit and other Indigenous people. The 2SDL has a capacity-building function to develop promising practices for Indigenous and Two-Spirit research as well as a discovery function to identify factors that promote the health of Two-Spirit people, through our analyses and continuous learning and engagement with and for the Two-Spirit community.

Work performed

Please note that specific tasks may change over the course of the appointment as project priorities shift. Occasional travel will be required.

The Research Coordinator will report to the co-Principal Investigators of the 2SDL CIHR team grant (Harlan Pruden, Travis Salway).

Qualifications

Knowledge and experience working with Indigenous and Two-Spirit communities

Knowledge and experience working with LGBTQ+ communities

Training and/or experience coordinating research activities, or sufficient experience in research to grow/learn research coordination skills

Ability to work independently and within a team, as needed