

Roger Alex Clapp — Curriculum Vitae

Education

PhD Geography 1993 (University of California, Berkeley). Dissertation: The Forest at the End of the World: the transition from old-growth to plantation forestry in Chile. Committee: M Watts (chair), R Walker, J McBride.

MA Geography 1987 (University of California, Berkeley). Thesis: Representing Reciprocity, Reproducing Domination: Ideology and the labor process in Latin American contract farming. Committee: M Watts (chair), R Walker, A Pred.

BA Linguistics 1983 (Yale University). Thesis: A Computational Model of Metaphor. Advisor: R Schank.

Employment

Chair, Department of Geography, Simon Fraser University, 2002–2005

Associate Professor, Department of Geography, Simon Fraser University, 1998–present

Assistant Professor, Department of Geography / Institute for Environmental Studies, University of Toronto, 1993–1998

Instructor, University of California, Berkeley, 1990–2

Teaching Assistant, Department of Geography, UC-Berkeley, 1986–

March 2002. Western Division of the Canadian Associ

May 1991. Occasional Meetings in Physical Geography, UC-Berkeley Department of Geography. What Darwin saw in Chile.

April 1991. Annual Meetings of the AAG, Miami. Exotic trees and forest conservation in southern Chile.

May 1989. Conference of Latin American Geographers, Querétaro, Mexico. Ideology and the labor process in Latin American contract farming.

April 1989. Organization of Latin Americanist Geographers, UC-Berkeley. The agrarian question and agroforestry in the Dominican Republic.

March 1989. Annual Meetings of the Association of