students enrolled in academic programs offered by that department. A student registered in programs in more than one department is split between the departments.

Notes:

- AFTE for students in unit fee programs include enrolment in undergraduate program courses.
- Excludes undergraduate students in graduate courses, audit enrolments and on-leave students.
- Co-op AFTE are normally excluded for reports relating to planning, and included for all other reports.

Changes to definition:

- Prior to Summer 2011, there was no separation of non co-op and co-op AFTE. All AFTE were calculated using the formulas listed above for non co-op AFTE. As most co-op courses were 0 units, co-

- 7. Time to Baccalaureate Degree Completion. Includes students completing their first SFU undergraduate degree. Time to completion is measured as the number of terms that pass from first undergraduate SFU admission to completion (inclusive), including non-registration terms. Students are assigned to departments and faculties based on their programs and major-level plans at graduation. Students may belong to more than one department or faculty. Data are grouped by fiscal year of convocation. Analysis is restricted to students admitted since 1990, who were in an undergraduate degree program in their first term (at official reporting dates). Source: IRP.
- 8. Time to Graduate Degree Completion. The number of terms to complete the degree is a simple count of the terms from program start to graduation, including terms of non-registration. For students who transferred from a diploma to a Master's or from a Master's to a Doctoral program within the same department, the time to completion is calculated based on entry into the first program. For students who transferred from a different program, the time to completion is based on the first term in the new program. Completion year is based on the fiscal year in which the degree was awarded. For Master's degrees, the non-thesis option includes other types of capstones (e.g. project, examination, portfolio, extended essay) as well as non-capstone programs. Source: IRP – graduate retention database.
- 9. Average Grade Awarded for Undergraduate Courses. The average grade awarded in undergraduate
