

PHIL 332 Selected Topics in Philosophy

INSTRUCTOR: David Zimmerman, WMCC 5004

Spring 2016

COURSE DESCRIPTION

Philosophy of language and philosophy of mind. Topics include: the philosophy of language, the philosophy of mind, and the philosophy of action.

The human mind is a complex system. It is a system that is capable of thought, feeling, and action. It is a system that is capable of understanding the world around it and of acting upon it. This course will explore the nature of the human mind and the relationship between the mind and the world.

Philosophy of language and philosophy of mind. Topics include: the philosophy of language, the philosophy of mind, and the philosophy of action. This course will explore the nature of the human mind and the relationship between the mind and the world. The course will cover the following topics: the philosophy of language, the philosophy of mind, and the philosophy of action. The course will be taught in a lecture format with occasional class discussions. The course will be graded on a pass/fail basis. The course will be taught by David Zimmerman, WMCC 5004.

- two papers (10 pp and 13pp)

Note: Prerequisite: PHIL 100 or 120