

FALL SEMESTER 1997

INSTRUCTOR: HEATHER HARRISON

RECORDED: 3/4/97

Reason and Argument, Richard Feldman

vulnerable to illeritimate persuasion.

US V

good arguments from bad. To present an argument, we shall discuss not by day me.

With practice, s
presc
Thi

and it is not the case that we are not persuaded by reasons that are not good reasons. And so to argue that we are not persuaded by reasons that are not good reasons is to argue that we are not persuaded by reasons that are not good reasons. And so we shall discuss not